

CLARION

OCTOBER 2023

FROM PASTOR'S DESK

What Does This Mean?

⁶ These words that I command you today shall be on your heart. ⁷ You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise. Deuteronomy 6:6-7

I've been thinking a lot about the Small Catechism recently. That's probably not so surprising, given the fact that we've just launched back into Confirmation classes; the Small Catechism is a foundational component of the curriculum as we seek to teach the basics of the faith to seventh and eighth grade students who are preparing for Confirmation.

But it occurs to me that while most of you are probably familiar with the Small Catechism, you may not know how or why it came to be. So this month, I'll offer a little history lesson and an encouragement to revisit the Small Catechism. It is appropriate to do this in October, since we also celebrate the Reformation this month, giving thanks to God for the work that Martin Luther and others did to bring the Church back to the roots of our faith: Holy Scripture.

A "catechism" is a teaching aid. The name comes from the Greek word "κατήχησις" (katechesis), which means "to teach or instruct," almost always in theological matters. More specifically, though, the term refers to instruction "by word of mouth," and that to me is very appropriate, since "faith comes through hearing, and hearing through the Word of God" (Romans 10:17).

The structure of the catechism is based on a classical method of instruction. It is organized into questions and their answers. Teachers would ask the questions, and students (also called "catechumens") would respond with the appropriate answer. Back and forth it would go, until the words and concepts took root in the student's mind and almost literally became a part of who they were.

This is the building of faith, the process of working Biblical truths into our souls so that we are never misled about who we are and are able to always fall back on the promises of God, even when the world sends us a bunch of misleading and contradictory messages.

You are sinful. God is the creator of everything. Jesus Christ lived, died, and rose again to atone for your sins. The Holy Spirit has enlightened you to understand this. God invites you to bring your petitions and thanksgivings to Him. He pours out forgiveness on you through the means of grace: His Word, Baptism, and Holy Communion. These are the most basic truths of the Christian faith, and the catechism helps to instill that in our young people (and our adults, too!).

It may have been a while since you cracked open your Small Catechism. Perhaps you have fond memories of your time as a catechumen...or maybe it wasn't all that fun. Either way, there is really good stuff in there, and I encourage you to take a little stroll down memory lane and dust it off again. Try this: put your Small Catechism by your bed and read a section each night. You might be amazed at the simple little truths that you learned way back when and the comfort they offer.

Luther included this wonderful tagline at the end of the section titled The Household Chart of Some Bible Passages:

Let each his lesson learn with care, and all the household well shall fare.

May be it be so for your household, too!

Pr. Longman

"I thank my God in all my remembrance of you always in every prayer of mine for you all making my prayer with joy, because of your partnership in the gospel from the first day until now," writes St. Paul in his letter to the Philippians (PHIL. 1:3).

THANKS

who work in our congregations and schools!

With this same gratitude, we thank the more than 11,000 church workers who serve our Synod with the Word and mercy of Christ. Throughout this month, congregations and schools are encouraged to show their appreciation for all church workers.

For teachers especially we give thanks, who teach God's Word to our children, dedicate countless hours to the classroom, who love the children of God they teach and who live a life of service to Christ and His church.

For all church workers, from pastors to deaconesses to directors of Christian education, parish music, family life and outreach, who teach God's Word and point us to Christ. Tell them "Thank you!" this month for all they do!

Set Apart to Serve seeks to create an intentional culture of church worker formation and recruitment in every LCMS congregation, school and entity. Visit resource.lcms.org/set-apart-to-serve to learn more.

HOLY TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Parents' Day Out

Our three classrooms are bustling with the activity of play and humming with the sounds of engaged children this September. In the beginning of the month some of the children explored apples, noting their tastes and textures and even using them as tools for art as they make apple prints. The children are also exploring letters, using them as play objects and learning to recognize their sounds and shapes.

The children have been soaking in the last warm days of Summer on the playground, using their mud kitchens, tires and climbing structure to create their own games.

We have welcomed new students in the Caterpillar Room (formerly Infant/Toddler) and Butterfly Room (formerly Preschool). The Caterpillar Room is really thriving and we would be happy to receive a volunteer or two to cuddle the babies!

The new room, formerly Classroom 5, is the Firefly Room. The children who spend Tuesday and Thursday here have graduated from the Butterfly Room and are enjoying age-appropriate activities with other "big kids."

The children are still enjoying Chapel Time in the Sanctuary every Thursday. They are hearing the repeated message that God loves them and they are memorizing songs like "Jesus' Little Lamb."

Thank you all for what you are doing for our PDO children! We appreciate you!

Defeating the Goliath of Addiction

Addiction is a feral beast lurking in the shadows, eager to pounce on the unsuspecting. It's a modern-day Goliath, a giant that seems insurmountable. But there is no reason to be afraid, for just like David wielded a sling and a stone, we have weapons of our own – the Rod of God, prayer, and the fellowship of believers.

So, let's start by acknowledging that addiction is not a new phenomenon. In the pages of the Bible, we find stories of individuals taken captive by their own desires and weaknesses. Take, for instance, King Solomon, the wisest of all men. He succumbed to the allure of excess, seeking fulfillment in material wealth and earthly pleasures. But in the end, he found that these pursuits were nothing but chasing after the wind.

In our modern world, the obsessive pursuit of pleasure and equally fervent attempts to escape from pain often lead people down the treacherous path of addiction. But pastors, in particular, are called to shepherd God's flock toward the forgiveness of sin, which leads to true freedom from addiction. And it all begins with the Word of God, our fortress and refuge against the impingement of addiction.

The Word of God

The Bible is not just a collection of ancient stories; it's a living breathing testament to God's justice, grace, and mercy inspired by the Holy Spirit. It's a beacon of light for those lost in the wilderness of addiction, offering new life and hope through faith in Christ. And as David received strength from the Lord to face Goliath, we too are strengthened by God to walk with those struggling with addiction, encouraging them through God's Word and prayer to lean on the promises of God's Word for their every need of body, mind, and soul.

Therefore, we must immerse ourselves in the Bible, not as judges but as students of our great teacher, Jesus Christ, to whom every Word of Scripture testifies. In the pages of the Bible, we learn from those who were also overwhelmed by temptation that they were never abandoned by God, no matter how heinous their sin. Just as God was with David during and after his destructive affair with Bathsheba, he walks with us in our worst moments. His Word is our one consistent source of comfort, offering solace to the wounded soul.

Prayer

It doesn't end there. Prayer is also a potent weapon in peoples' struggle against addiction, our direct line to our Heavenly Father. The Bible shows countless examples of individuals crying out to God in their distress. The Psalms, in particular, are a treasure trove of raw and honest prayers from people like David, who were no strangers to suffering and addiction of various forms.

Through prayer, we speak with God like children talk to their doting father, acknowledging our powerlessness and seeking God's guidance and strength. And for addicts and those in recovery who do not or will not pray, we can teach them that prayer is not just a mechanical ritual but a lifeline to the One who can life them out of the mire of addiction. And just as Jesus prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane, we too can receive strength, wisdom, and hope in our communion with God through prayer.

The Fellowship of Believers

Now, let's talk about the fellowship of believers. The early Christians gathered in homes to break bread, pray, and hear the teachings of the apostles read and preached. We, too, should invite those struggling with addiction to find refuge in a community of believers who also come to Jesus for comfort and peace. This communion is like a hospital for the wounded souls, a place where people can be brutally honest, emotionally naked, and receive fellowship from their brothers and sisters in Christ.

This is vital because isolation often reigns supreme in the prison of addiction. But it is in fellowship with other believers and those who've walked the same path that sobriety and freedom begin. Again, pastors, in particular, should encourage and nurture these bonds of fellowship. They should strive to foster an environment where individuals are encouraged to come to their pastor to confess their sin and converse about their struggles and victories, knowing that they are confessing towards absolution rather than judgment and condemnation.

The power of confession and absolution within the communion of saints cannot be overstated. Just as the Apostle Paul was open and honest about his conversion from persecutor to believer, those in recovery serve as instruments of God's grace that inspire others with their testimony about God's intervention in their lives, which brought them to sobriety, faith, and freedom. It's a testament to the redemptive power of God's Word, a living, active testimony of the Word made flesh in their lives.

We must also address the stigma surrounding addiction within so many churches. Just as the religious leaders of Jesus' time looked down upon tax collectors and sinners, we, too, must guard against self-righteousness. Addiction does not discriminate; it affects people from all walks of life. Therefore, armed with God's Word and faith, pastors and fellow believers should strive to foster an environment of forgiveness, compassion, and grace, just as Jesus did.

Yes, addiction is a formidable opponent, but it is not invincible. With the Word of God as our guide, prayer as our weapon against temptation and sin, and the fellowship of believers and those in recovery as our support, we can combat this feral beast head-on. Just as David faced Goliath armed with God's gifts of faith and courage, so too can those who struggle receive hope and healing when God turns them towards sobriety and freedom from addiction.

As the apostle reminds us, we are the hands and feet of Christ, proclaiming forgiveness and grace in the name of Jesus to those in need. For pastors, we are the shepherds whom God calls to carry the lost sheep back to the fold. And so, let us pray that our Heavenly Father never allows us to forget that and keep us ever-mindful that, in the words of the Apostle Paul, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." So, with Christ Jesus teaching, strengthening, and protecting us, we may overcome the giant of addiction and witness a new dawn of hope and restoration, given to us as a gift to the eternal glory of God in Jesus Christ, through whom our names are written in heaven.

KIDS IN THE DIVINE SERVICE

P: LET US PRAY TO THE LORD

What is the “Prayer of the Church”?

The Prayer of the Church, or the “general prayer” as it’s sometimes called, is the part in the service where the pastor leads us through a series of petitions, or prayers, with responses from the congregation. For example, after each petition the pastor may say: “Let us pray to the Lord,” and the congregation may respond with “Lord, have mercy.” See if you can find the Prayer of the Church in your hymnal. Try to find the other response that the pastor and congregation might say.

R: LORD, HAVE MERCY

Why do we do this in the Divine Service?

Do you know anyone who needs praying for? Wouldn't you like to have the rest of the congregation praying for that person too? During the Prayer of the Church, we pray for all of the people of our congregation, particularly those who are sick and shut-in. We also pray for our missionaries, for our government, for all believers and many others. No wonder it's called the Prayer of the Church!

Parents: Before the Divine Service, remind your children to pay close attention to the words of the prayers. Encourage them to join in the responses with the rest of the congregation. Try using these responses in your prayers at home.
